Peter McLoughlin, CEO, Boston Property Capital

Business Challenge & History

Boston Property Capital required dependable IT support that could reduce risk while maintaining consistency across daily operations. The challenge centred on finding a partner capable of supporting growth without introducing instability or uncertainty.

- Managing an IT environment that demanded a seamless transition without disrupting ongoing business operations or internal workflows during changes in support and oversight.
- Addressing the need for proactive monitoring to prevent issues before they escalated, rather than relying on reactive fixes that could impact productivity and confidence.
- Eliminating uncertainty around costs and accountability by moving away from unclear billing structures toward transparent pricing and predictable IT management.
